Three takeaways

- 1. Recognize "too soft" behavior
- 2. Avoid being too soft
- 3. Become a more effective project manager and leader

Bonus: Are You Too Soft? takeaway Power Snippets

What is "too soft"?

- Behavior that results in you being consistently less effective than what is otherwise possible in accomplishing your responsibilities
- Most of us are too soft most of the time

Let's look at examples of too-soft behavior

Focuses predominately on other than top 3 problems/priorities

Avoids escalating to higher levels of management

Unwilling to passionately defend the right project plan

Behaves as if there is little or no authority to support their responsibility

Puts off insisting on and driving good project management practices

Lax in holding others accountable for their commitments and actions

Delays asking for help when needed

Personally takes on "too much" work

Evades taking a position on an issue rather than alienating others

Fails to perform assignments as if owns the business

ARE YOU TOO SOFT?

#1 REASON WHY PROJECT MANAGERS FAIL: BEING TOO SOFT!

Examples of project manager actions (or inactions) indicative of toosoft behavior:

- Focuses predominately on other than the top three problems/priorities
- Avoids escalating to higher levels of management project-related problems that are at an apparent impasse for resolution
- Unwilling to passionately defend the right project plan to the project sponsor, executives, or client
- Behaves as if there is little or no authority to support their responsibility
- Puts off insisting on and driving good project management practices throughout the project
- Lax in holding project members accountable for their commitments and actions
- Delays asking for help when needed
- Takes on too much work instead of assigning tasks to the appropriate project members
- Evades taking a position on an issue rather than alienating project members
- Fails to perform assignments as if owned the business

Why we are too soft?

- We don't know how not to be too soft
- We are afraid of alienating others; concerned that people will not like us
- We are uncomfortable in getting too much attention and having to defend our actions

Why we are too soft? (cont.)

- We are concerned that we might hurt someone's feelings
- We don't understand our job
- We are uncomfortable in asking for help
- We are concerned that tougher behavior will burn bridges, be career limiting

Not being too soft...

- Doesn't mean you have to be: Rude, insensitive, arrogant, or a bully
- None of these attributes are acceptable EVER!

Will Too-Soft Behavior Win Friends and Respect?

The opposite effect will occur long term

- You will lose respect as a leader
- Your project's outcome will be negatively affected
- Your career will become stagnant... or shortened

Are You Up to Being an Effective and Successful PM?

- Do you have difficulty in making unpopular decisions?
- Do you allow what others think to be more important than what you think about yourself?
- Do you follow the "squeaky wheels" instead of your inner compass?
- Don't despair...

The Main Messages

- You are fully accountable for the successful outcome of your project
- Take charge and drive your project as if your business and future depends on it ...because it does!

Your career clock is ticking... now, go make a bigger difference!
